

An Introduction to the Lectionary for Mass

Titles of Different but Related Books:

- Bible - all the Christian scriptures, arranged in "canonical" order (both OT & NT, from Genesis to Revelation)
- Lectionary - all the readings used at the Mass/Eucharist and other liturgies, arranged in order of the liturgical calendar
- Missal - all the texts needed for Mass, including instructions, prayers, readings, some music, etc.
  - Since Vatican II, the Roman Missal is usually published in two parts: the Sacramentary (all texts spoken by the priest, but not including the readings) and the Lectionary for Mass (all the readings proclaimed from the lectern or ambo).
- Other Catholic Ritual Books:
  - Book of the Gospels - special publications of Gospel readings from the Lectionary, esp. for use in liturgical processions
  - Gradual - music and lyrics for sung texts of the Mass, as well as tones for singing other liturgical texts
  - Pontifical - texts for ceremonies normally performed only by bishops and popes, such as ordinations and confirmations
  - Ordos - various publications containing the "Order of Service" (instructions, prayers, biblical readings) for specific rites and sacraments, such as Baptisms, Weddings, Funerals, Anointing of the Sick, Reconciliation/Penance, etc.
- Common Lectionary / Revised Common Lectionary - used by most mainline Protestant denominations today (Episcopalians, Lutherans, Presbyterians, Methodists, etc.); very similar to the Roman Catholic Lectionary for Mass.

Historical Overview:

- Roman Missal / *Missale Romanum (various pre-Vatican II editions, based on the one of Pope Pius V from 1570)
  - same readings were used year after year, on the same Sundays and feast days
  - most Masses had only two readings: one called "The Epistle" and the other "The Gospel"
  - readings were rarely from the OT, only on a few feasts, vigils, ember days, and within some liturgical octaves
  - most weekday Masses did not have proper readings, but used readings from the prior Sunday or a saint's day.
  - total biblical texts used for Sundays, vigils, and major feasts included only about 22% of the NT Gospels, 11% of the NT Epistles, and only 0.8% of the OT (not counting the Psalms).
- Lectionary for Mass (revision mandated by the Second Vatican Council, 1963)
  - Latin edition 1969; USA edition 1970; use began on the First Sunday of Advent: Nov. 30, 1970
  - three readings are now prescribed for Sundays & major feasts: 1) usually OT books, 2) NT Epistles, 3) NT Gospel
  - there is a much greater variety of readings: 3-year Sunday rotation: Cycles A/B/C; 2-year weekday cycle: Years I/II
  - total biblical texts used for Sundays, vigils, and major feasts now include about 58% of the NT Gospels, 25% of the NT Epistles, but still only 3.7% of the OT (aside from the Psalms).
- Revised Lectionary for Mass (second post-Vatican II editions)
  - Latin edition, 1981 - based on the Neo-Vulgate Bible translation
  - Canadian edition, 1992 - based on the NRSV translation (inclusive language dispute)
  - USA edition: Sundays 1998, Weekdays 2002 - based mostly on the NAB translation
  - Publication of the current USA edition is normally in four volumes:
    1. Sundays and Major Feast Days - Years/Cycles A, B, C
    2. Weekdays, Year I - odd-numbered years, incl. feasts of saints with "proper" readings
    3. Weekdays, Year II - even-numbered years, incl. feasts of saints with "proper" readings
    4. Common of Saints, Rituals, Votives, Various Needs - many more choices of readings than before

Liturgical Calendar / Liturgical Seasons:

- Advent - a season of joyful/hopeful preparation, up to 4 weeks long; begins four Sundays before Christmas (Nov. 27 to Dec. 3)
  - Dec. 17-24 - the last week before Christmas has readings from Matthew 1 and Luke 1 and special "O Antiphons"
- CHRISTMAS - not just Christmas Day itself (Dec. 25), but a continued celebration for two to three weeks afterward
  - Christmas Season - from the Christmas Vigil (Dec. 24 eve), to Epiphany (Jan. 6), to the Baptism of the Lord (mid-Jan.)
- Ordinary Time (I) - the period (varies between 4 and 9 weeks) from the end of the Christmas season to the beginning of Lent
  - called the "Season of Epiphany" by Anglicans and in some Protestant Churches
- Lent - a season of penitential preparation ("forty days"), from Ash Wednesday to Holy Thursday morning
  - Holy Week - the week before Easter, beginning Palm Sunday (a.k.a. Passion Sunday) and including the Easter Triduum
- EASTER - not just Easter Sunday itself (rule for movable date: first Sunday after the first full moon after the vernal equinox)
  - Easter Triduum- "three holy days" from Holy Thursday eve, to Good Friday, to the Easter Vigil and Easter Sunday eve
  - Easter Octave - from Easter Sunday to the following Sunday (now called "Divine Mercy Sunday" by Roman Catholics)
  - Easter Season - a total of 50 days (7 full weeks) from Easter Sunday up to and including Pentecost Sunday
- Ordinary Time (II) - the rest of the year (up to 34 weeks total), after Pentecost Sunday and ending with the next Advent
  - called the "Season of Pentecost" by Anglicans and in some Protestant Churches

Liturgical Colors:

- Advent - Purple, except for Rose (optional) on the 3rd Sunday of Advent ("Gaudete Sunday")
- Christmas - White or Gold (not red and green!)
- Lent - Purple, except Rose (optional) on the 4th Sunday of Lent ("Laetare Sunday"), and Red on Passion/Palm Sunday
- Easter Triduum - White or Gold on Holy Thursday and at the Easter Vigil; Red on Good Friday
- Easter Season - White or Gold, except for Red on Pentecost Sunday
- Ordinary Time - Green, except for special colors on particular feasts or occasions, as follows:
  - White - Solemnities of the Lord and the Saints; major local feasts; funeral liturgies (Black also allowed)
  - Red - feasts of the Apostles, Martyrs, or the Holy Spirit

Masses for Sundays and Major Feast Days: Three Readings - really five!

1. First Reading - from the Old Testament, except from Acts of the Apostles during Easter Season
2. Responsorial Psalm - mostly from the Book of Psalms; sometimes other biblical "Canticles"
3. Second Reading - mostly from the Letters of Paul, but sometimes other NT Epistles and the Book of Revelation
4. Verse before the Gospel - usually a direct biblical quotation, but sometimes adapted from a biblical text
5. Gospel - Year A: Matthew, Year B: Mark mostly; Year C: Luke; (where's John? used mostly in Lent & Easter)

Masses for Weekdays, Lesser Feasts, and Special Occasions: Two Readings - really four!

1. First Reading - semi-continuous readings; alternate between OT & NT; on a two-year cycle
2. Responsorial Psalm - mostly from the Book of Psalms, but sometimes other Canticles; also on a two-year cycle
3. Verse before the Gospel - first edition had mostly "common" texts; now specifically prescribed texts
4. Gospel - same each year; semi-continuous readings from Mark, Matthew, Luke, in that order

Readings for Special Masses and Liturgies:

- Saints - four categories, in decreasing order of importance: Solemnities, Feasts, Memorials, Optional Memorials
  - some saints have their own "Propers" - prayers and readings specifically selected for the particular saint
  - for other feast days, texts and prayers are recommended from various "Commons" - Anniversary of the Dedication of a Church, Blessed Virgin Mary, Martyrs, Pastors, Doctors of the Church, Virgins, and Holy Men & Women
- Ritual Masses - incl. Christian Initiation (of adults or children; baptism, confirmation, and first communion), Conferral of Holy Orders and other Ministries, Pastoral Care of the Sick and Dying, Sacrament of Marriage, Religious Profession, Blessing of a Church or Altar, etc.
- Masses for Various Occasions - four subcategories:
  - for the Holy Church (incl. pope, pastoral meetings, unity of Christians, etc.),
  - for Public Needs (civil leaders, peace and justice, in time of war, etc.),
  - in Various Public Circumstances (new year, harvest, refugees, natural disasters, etc.),
  - and for Various Needs (promotion of charity, for the family, for a happy death, etc.)
- Votive Masses - Holy Trinity, Holy Cross, Holy Eucharist, Christ the High Priest, Holy Name of Jesus, Precious Blood, Sacred Heart, Blessed Virgin Mary, St. Joseph, All the Holy Apostles, Sts. Peter & Paul, St. Peter, St. Paul, One Holy Apostle, All Saints
- Masses for the Dead - incl. Funeral Liturgies and Memorial Masses, Funerals for Baptized Children, and Funerals for Children who Died before Baptism

Concluding Notes:

- On most Sundays, there is an intentional thematic connection between the Gospel & the First Reading (usually also the Resp. Psalm & Gospel Accl.); but the Second Reading is usually unrelated, since it follows a separate semi-continuous reading pattern.
- If one includes all the Masses for weekdays, rituals, votives, the propers and commons of saints, and special needs and occasions, the Lectionary for Mass now covers much of the NT (about 90% of the Gospels, 55% of the rest: Acts, Epistles, Revelation), but still very little of the OT (slightly over 13%), but this is understandable, given how much longer the OT is.

Further Explanations:

The Latin Ordos (OLM69 and OLM81) do not contain the full biblical texts of all the readings, but only print the biblical references, a brief phrase to be used as a header, and the incipit (the opening words) for each reading. They also explicitly print the prescribed texts for the Psalm Responses and the Alleluia Verses (or "Verses before the Gospel" during Lent). The USCC publications have most of this information in English translation, but they unfortunately do not include the incipits. The full Lectionaries published for use in the United States (USL70 and USL98) contain the biblical texts of all the readings.

OLM69 was officially promulgated by the Vatican "Congregation for Divine Worship" on May 25, 1969. It prescribes all the readings for all Masses celebrated throughout the liturgical year: Sundays, Weekdays, Saints Days, Rituals, Votives, Special Needs and Occasions, etc. It includes the full text (in Latin) for the Psalm Responses and Alleluia Verses, but for the First Readings, Second Readings, and Gospels, it includes only the biblical references, a summary phrase, and the incipit (first words) of each reading, but not the complete text. For the Responsorial Psalms, it clearly indicates which verses are to be included in which strophe. All biblical references are given according to the Vulgate edition of the Bible, with parenthetical remarks if the versification of the Hebrew or Greek Bibles is different from the Vulgate. Nevertheless, there is sometimes ambiguity about exactly where a reading should end, or which words or phrases are to be included, due to minor variations in the wording and versification of the Bible in the various ancient languages and modern editions.

USCC69 and USCC70 are essentially English-language equivalents of OLM69, with translations of the Psalm Responses, Alleluia Verses, and Summary Phrases prepared and copyrighted by the International Committee on English in the Liturgy. Like OLM69, they do not contain the full texts of the readings, but were intended as guides for publishers preparing complete Lectionaries using various English translations of the Bible. The first edition was published by the USCC in 1969 and a second edition in 1970, "with revisions indicated by Congregation for Divine Worship 7/24/70." This evidently refers to the "Instruction on Particular Calendars....," which was promulgated not on July 24, but on June 24, 1970 (see Acta Apostolicae Sedis 62 [1970] 651-663).

USL70 contains the full text of all readings, "with the New American Version of sacred scripture from the original languages made by members of the Catholic Biblical Association and sponsored by the Bishop's Committee of the Division of Religious Education (Confraternity of Christian Doctrine," or what is more commonly known as the New American Bible (NAB). The Catholic Book Publishing Company (CBP) was not the only publisher that immediately produced a complete edition of the Lectionary for use in the United States (Benzinger in New York did so using the Jerusalem Bible translation). But the CBP edition is probably the one most widely used in parishes throughout the USA, and thus was the one used in compiling the following charts.

OLM81 is the official second edition of the "Order of Readings for Mass" in Latin, promulgated on January 21, 1981. It corrected most of the typographical errors of the OLM69, as noted below, but also incorporated many other changes and additions to the Lectionary. OLM81 and the revised Lectionaries based upon it are sometimes referred to as "second generation" liturgical texts.

USL98 and USL02 were published rather long after OLM81, and four years apart, due to many delays in the preparations and approvals needed for the English language editions for use in the United States. USL98-02 follows most of the prescriptions of OLM81, with only a few discrepancies.

Calendar of Lectionary Cycles and Movable Liturgical Feasts (1969 – 2050)

NOTE: In 2008 and 2011, Easter Sunday was almost as early and almost as late as possible, respectively. It can be as early as March 22 (as it last was in 1818, but will not be again until 2285) and as late as April 25 (in 1886, 1943, and 2038). Even falling as early as March 23 is rare (as it was in 1913 and 2008, but will not be again until 2160).

* Note: Since the length of the Advent Season varies (between three and four weeks, depending on which weekday Christmas falls), but in order to ensure that the readings for the 34th Week in Ordinary Time are read at the very end of each liturgical year, one entire week of Ordinary Time is often (but not always) omitted after the Season of Easter. Thus, for example, if the weekdays just before Lent belong to the 5th week of O.T., then after Pentecost we continue with the 6th week of O.T. in some years, but skip to the 7th week of O.T. in most years.

Liturgical Introductions for Scripture Readings

A reading from the Book of Genesis (or Exodus, Joshua, Proverbs, Job, etc., for most OT books).

A reading from the first (or second) Book of Samuel (or Kings, Chronicles, Maccabees).

A reading from the Book of the prophet Isaiah (or Jeremiah, Ezekiel, Hosea, etc., for all prophets).

A reading from the Song of Songs. (the only OT text not “from the Book of...”)

A reading from the Acts of the Apostles.

A reading from the Letter of Paul to the Romans (or Galatians, Ephesians, Philippians, Colossians).

A reading from the first (or second) Letter of Paul to the Corinthians (or Thessalonians).

A reading from the first (or second) Letter of Paul to Timothy.

A reading from the Letter of Paul to Titus (or Philemon).

A reading from the Letter TO the Hebrews. (not “...of Paul to the Hebrews”)

A reading from the Letter OF James (or Jude).

A reading from the first (or second, or third) Letter of Peter (or John).

A reading from the Book of Revelation. (not plural “Revelations”)

A reading from the holy Gospel according to Matthew (or Mark, Luke, John).

Conclusions for Liturgical Readings:

After the 1st and 2nd readings: “The Word of the Lord” (not “This is the Word...”)

After the Gospel readings: “The Gospel of the Lord” or “The Good News of Our Salvation”

Alternate Introductions for Scripture Readings: (with “Saint”)

A reading from the Letter of Saint Paul to the Romans (or Galatians, Ephesians, Philippians, Colossians).

A reading from the first (or second) Letter of Saint Paul to the Corinthians (or Thessalonians).

A reading from the first (or second) Letter of Saint Paul to Timothy.

A reading from the Letter of Saint Paul to Titus (or Philemon).

A reading from the Letter of Saint James (or Jude).*

A reading from the first (or second, or third) Letter of Saint Peter (or John).

A reading from the holy Gospel according to Saint Matthew (or Mark, Luke, John).*

*Note: The Lectionary for Mass (1998/2002) is inconsistent with the use of the title “Saint” before names.

- The title “Saint” is explicitly added before the names of most of the Apostles (Paul, Peter, John, Jude), but curiously not before the names of the four Evangelists. The Spanish translation of the Roman Missal has “San Mateo,” “San Marcus,” etc.
- The usage is inconsistent for James: Readings 695.1, 716.7, 740.13, and 792.13 have “Saint James,” but readings 883.9, 883.10, 888.3, 898.3, 903.2, 923.2, 934.4, and 939.3 (all in the section of “Masses for Various Needs and Occasions”) merely say “A reading from the Letter of James.”
- Although Paul is called “Saint,” Timothy and Titus are not; the Lectionary says, “A reading of the first Letter of St. Paul to Timothy,” rather than “...Saint Paul to Saint Timothy” (or Titus).

Notes:

The First Readings from the OT were chosen to fit with the themes of the Gospel readings, and thus come from different OT books, with almost no continuity between weeks. The Second Readings from the NT Epistles follow a different, semi-continuous reading schedule, and thus are usually unrelated to the theme of the First Reading and Gospel. The 1st Sunday is the Feast of the Baptism of the Lord. The 34th Sunday is the Solemnity of Christ the King. Other Sundays may be supplanted by certain Solemnities or Feasts.

An Overview of the First Readings for Weekday Masses

The First Readings prescribed for Weekday Masses in the special liturgical seasons are the same each year:

- Season of Advent: selections from various OT books, esp. the prophet Isaiah;
- Christmas Season: continuous reading of entire First Letter of John (Dec. 27 to Jan. 12; interrupted only for Feast of Mary, Mother of God [Jan. 1], and Feast of Epiphany of the Lord)
- Season of Lent: selections from a wide variety of OT books, with no connected pattern;
- Easter Season: semi-continuous readings from the Acts of the Apostles

The First Readings prescribed for Weekday Masses in Ordinary Time follow a two-year cycle, with semi-continuous readings from various books of the OT and NT. The following chart lists the biblical books and chapters from which the readings are taken for the weeks indicated. Note that most readings include only a small number of verses, not the entire chapters listed; verse numbers are not specified in this chart to provide a simpler overview of the overall patterns.

Notes:

- 1) The chart above provides additional information through some special features:
  - light blue backgrounds indicate readings from the Old Testament/Hebrew Bible;
  - light green backgrounds indicate readings from the Deuterocanonical Books of the OT;
  - plain white backgrounds indicate readings from the New Testament books and epistles;
  - chapter numbers in bold indicate that all or most (at least 80%) of the chapter is included in the readings;
  - chapter numbers not bolded indicate that only part of the chapter is included (sometimes only a few verses).
- 2) This chart summarizes the readings prescribed for each week, rather than listing the six weekday Masses separately (in some weeks, fewer chapters are listed since several Masses that week may have short selections from the same biblical chapter; in other weeks, more than six chapters are listed because some Mass readings may include verses from two or more biblical chapters).
- 3) The introductory sections of all published Weekday Lectionaries include a similar table showing the "Order of the First Reading for Weekdays in Ordinary Time." That table can give the false impression, however, that the weekday readings include the entire biblical books listed for the two-year cycle. In contrast, the chart above more clearly shows how many chapters are not included in the prescribed readings for weekday Masses. (For example, selections from only 14 of the 40 chapters of Exodus, from only 7 of the 25 chapters of 2 Kings, and from only 2 of the 15 chapters of 2 Maccabees are included; in contrast, almost the entire Letter to the Ephesians and the entire Epistle of James are included).
